YACHTZOO is an international brokerage company offering bespoke, all-around services to meet every aspect of our clients' yachting needs. Guided by ethics and professionalism, our dedicated team works continuously to stay ahead of new regulations and technology.

Dear APSA Members and Friends,

Strong strategic partnerships, regional boat shows & conferences has seen the Asia-Pacific superyacht community strengthen. APSA has been partnered with the Asia-Pacific Superyacht Summit, Australian Superyacht Conference, International Charter Expo, Monaco Smart & Sustainable Marina Rendezvous, SEA Yachting Conference, Singapore Yachting Festival, Sydney Charter Show, Thailand Yachting Conference, Thailand International Boat Show and the Yacht Racing Forum.

By partnering with regional and international events, APSA has been able to promote our fantastic cruising grounds to the global superyacht community and provide the networking opportunities for industry professionals and superyacht businesses in the region. I am particularly excited about the Asia-Pacific Superyacht Summit that is coming to Japan on the 7 and 8 May, 2026. This will be a major boost for the Asian superyacht industry. Japan's yachting industry is well established and with the launch of Superyacht Base Kobe in 2027, Japan will have its first dedicated superyacht marina. Kobe's proximity to Seto Naikai or "Setouchi" (Japan's Inland Sea), will make it a great gateway to Japan's famous cruising grounds and boost superyacht charter and cruising in the region.

Hong Kong is also playing another key role in region and with the adoption of Marine Tourism by the HK Government it is fuelling the development of new marinas and yachting infrastructure in the Greater Bay Area of China. With several new marinas in planning this will be a draw card for superyacht interest and development.

Over the last year APSA has welcomed new members, including our Platinum Member Damen Yachting part of the Damen Shipyards Group. Daman proudly builds and refits Amels Superyachts, Xplorer expedition yachts and Yacht Support vessels, with approximately 1,500 yacht building professionals. Together with hundreds of specialist co-makers, Damen Yachts in one of the leading superyacht shipyards in the world and APSA is proud that they are now a Platinum Member.

With 85 Voting Members, 16 Affiliate Association Partners, and 18 Official Media and Event Partners, APSA's networking database is now one of the strongest in the region. On 22nd September, the APSA Committee will welcome members, sponsors, and guests our flagship event in Monaco, the 'Asia Superyacht Night'. This invitation-only event is a real crowd pleaser, and we are expecting over 250 guests to enjoy a fun night under the stars and it is a great way to kick off the Monaco Yacht Show.

Finally, APSA holds its AGM on the afternoon prior to the Asia Superyacht Night. We look forward to welcoming all members to be actively engaged in the work that the Association is doing. I would like to thank the Committee for their contributions, and Executive Director Suzy Rayment who makes sure that the Asia-Pacific is always featured on the superyacht map.

Thanks to all our members for your continued support, and I look forward to seeing you in Monaco or Japan. Enjoy your time on the water as that is where the fun happens!

Best Regards
Nigel Beatty, Chairman - APSA

APSA ASIA-PACIFIC HISTORY, COMMITTEE AND SUPERYACHT COMMUNITY

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT
APSA AND OUR SUPERYACHT COMMUNITY

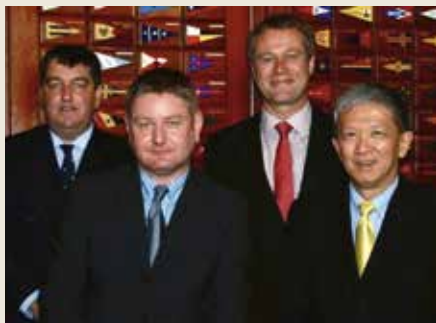

APSA A Brief History

The Asia Pacific Superyacht Association (APSA) is ten years old. Over the last decade, the Association has played an active role in promoting the Asia-Pacific to the global superyacht community as one of the world's three main cruising regions.

It promotes Asian yacht businesses to the global superyacht community, and connects the worldwide superyacht community to those who want to do business in Asia.

2011: ESTABLISHMENT OF THE ASSOCIATION, APSA COMMITTEE AND AFFILIATED ASSOCIATIONS

The idea of APSA was first mooted at the Asia-Pacific Superyacht Conference in 2009, but it took time to bring it to fruition. Established by five industry professionals (Colin Dawson, Jean-Jacques Lavigne, YP Loke, Simon Turner, and Gareth Twist), APSA was incorporated on the 20 April 2011, with 45 Founder Members from 14 countries. Affiliate partnerships were established with Superyacht Australia, Japan Superyacht Association, Japan Yachting Professional Association, Thai Marine Business Association, and the Indonesian Superyacht Association.

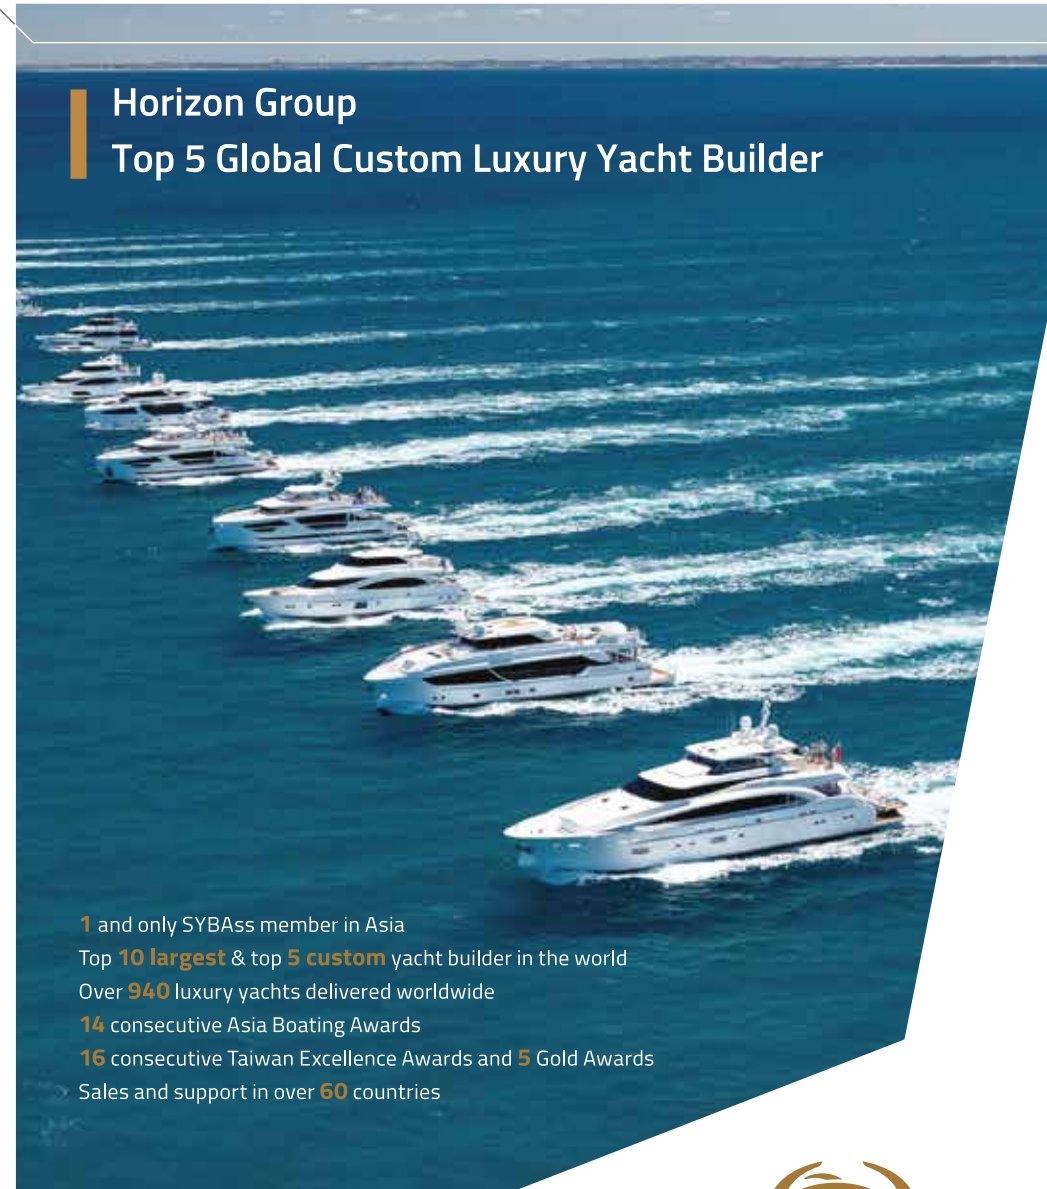

Inaugural APSA Committee

2012: COMMITTEE MEETINGS, CAPTAINS' LUNCHESES, CONFERENCES, AND THE FIRST AGM IN MONACO

APSA's first year focused on growing the membership numbers and developing the Association's infrastructure. Committee meetings in Hong Kong, Captains' networking lunches, participation in the Asia Pacific Superyacht Forum and APSA's first AGM in Monaco were all part of the first year's activities. Thanks to SevenStar Yacht Transport for hosting cocktails at the Monaco Yacht Show, and providing a fantastic networking opportunity at which the industry was able to discuss the future of superyachts in the Asia-Pacific region.

2013: APSA WEEK, SINGAPORE YACHT SHOW, AND THE ASIA-PACIFIC SUPERYACHT CONFERENCE

'APSA Week' in Hong Kong was a series of forums, events, dinners, and boatyard tours, that encouraged debates and discussions about opportunities and challenges faced by the industry. It offered a platform where insights and strategies were shared, giving direction to the next stage of APSA's development. APSA attended both the Singapore Yacht Show and the Asia-Pacific Superyacht Conference with many of the speakers being APSA members. Thanks to APSA member Baroque on Lamma for the use of their boardroom for the APSA Week Forums, and to Moonblue 2 for hosting APSA Members on a sailing outing to Po Toi.

2017: NEW APSA WEBSITE, CRUISING REGULATIONS IN HK, SOCIAL MEDIA, AND NETWORKING EVENTS

A new-look APSA website was launched, along with APSA social media campaigns and the new edition of the APSA Guide. APSA members worked with the Hong Kong Government to make changes to the cruising regulations and relax restrictions for visiting superyacht, and the Superyacht Group (Great Barrier Reef) joined as an Affiliate member. Quarterly networking nights in Hong Kong proved to be popular, and the Singapore edition soon followed. APSA continued to expand its presence at both the Singapore and Monaco Yacht Shows, and the APSA office was relocated to Singapore. The inaugural APSA Superyacht Night, held on the rooftop at the Novotel Hotel (Monaco) proved to be a great success. Thanks to YACHTZOO and Super Yacht Logistics Japan for sponsoring the event.

2020: APSA GUIDE ONLINE, EDMS AND NEWSLETTERS, AND APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Covid restrictions meant no boat shows, no travel and no events—except for the soft opening of the Lantau Yacht Club in Hong Kong in February, when ‘social distancing’ restrictions were eased. APSA continued to connect with its members through the online APSA Guide, twice monthly digital newsletters, and special member EDMs. While some parts of the boating industry thrived, others struggled, but by the end of 2020 it was pleasing to note that APSA had 10 new members, with most of the existing APSA members renewing. Suzy Rayment came onboard at the beginning of the year as Marketing Director, but after a few months her role expanded to Executive Director.

2021: APSA GRAND TOUR SEASON, ZOOM AGM, ASSOCIATIONS AND THE 10TH ANNIVERSARY EDITION OF THE APSA GUIDE

APSA’s 10th Anniversary year started full steam ahead with the APSA Grand Tour Series. This 5-week series covered 15 countries with 20 presenters. Thanks to Trenton Gay and David Good (Australia), Mark Wightman (New Zealand), Angela Pennefather (Papua New Guinea), Nigel Beaty (Japan), Paul Brackley (Taiwan), Colin Dawson, Joe Yuen and Mike Simpson (Hong Kong and Southern China), Gordon Fernandes (Thailand), Scott Walker (Singapore), Richard Lofthouse and Andy Shorten (Indonesia), David Jamieson (Fiji and Tonga), Katrina Matheson (Cook Islands), Manoa Rey (Tahiti), Aashim Mongia (India), Prasanna Withanage (Sri Lanka), Nadhira Muneer (Maldives) and Christophe Ceard (Europe). APSA now has a library of YouTube destination videos that give up-to-date and relevant information to the global superyacht community about cruising destinations in the Asia-Pacific. The Virtual Zoom AGM took place on the 6th May, and APSA established partnerships with several regional boating industry associations: Hong Kong, India, Malaysia, Singapore and Thailand. The printing of the 10th Anniversary Edition of the APSA Guide completed this special milestone year.

SOUTH KOREA

TAIWAN

 China is very big. From the northernmost port, Jinzhou (40.89N), to the southern tip of Hainan (18.16N) is more than 2,200nm, and the climate goes from tropical to continental cold. History dictates that for a long time there was no such thing as recreational boating in China, and in relation to the population the country is still resource-poor where yachting is concerned. China also lacks a coherent national policy with regard to private boats, meaning that regulations concerning entry differ from province to province and even from port to port. There are marina developments in China and the Greater Bay Area and Hainan is being developed as the centre for yachting and marine development.

Hainan is the smallest and southern most province of the People's Republic of China (PRC). Hainan Island, is the largest and most populous island, which makes up 97% with the rest divided among over 200 islands scattered across three archipelagos. Considered the Hawaii of China, Hainan island enjoys a temperate climate all year round and is the only place in China to have tropical style beaches. Hainan's status has recently changed and with the aim of it becoming China's biggest Free Trade Zone. The master-plan was released in June 2020, and boats, boaters, and the boating industry are on the agenda for future development. Haikou is the capital of the province, while Sanya is the most popular tourist destination in the south.

Anchorage and Cruising:

In June 2019, the Hainan Provincial Government unveiled an Implementation Plan for "Free Cruising" for Yachts from Hong Kong and Macao in the China (Hainan) Pilot Free Trade Zone. Yachts from Hong Kong and Macao can enter eight scenic water areas with temporary approvals. They are Dongying, Boao, Shimei Bay, Haitang Bay, Sanya Nanshan Cultural Tourism Zone, Longmu Bay, Qizi Bay, and Lingao Cape. The policy also simplifies entry and exit approval procedures, and cancels requirements for single-voyage certification registration.

 Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China (HKSAR), is an "international port" in the generally-accepted sense. Everything is available in Hong Kong, from fuel to victuals and from shipyards to brokers. It's a pocket-sized destination, but Hong Kong has an extensive coast line and some spectacular cruising grounds and it's also an excellent jumping-off point for the Philippines and Indonesia, towards the Pacific, and south in the direction of the Antipodes. Hong Kong International Airport connects to over 220 destinations, and the Business Aviation Centre is the biggest in Asia. With its east-west culture, sophisticated dining, luxury hotels and world class shopping it is popular tourist destination.

C CAPITAL (Japan)

Around 1,600nm from north to south, and with just under 7,000 islands, Japan spans many climatic regions, similar to the Bahamas/Caribbean in the South and New England and Maine in the far north. Japan's blend of modern day first world ultra-safe society, 2,600-year old history and amazing wildlife and geography come together to create an incredible cruising experience. Japan has had an advanced superyacht marina infrastructure for over 35 years, with full-service dockage for any size yacht, as well as a complete array of shore services to make life simple for Captains and crew. (Nigel Beatty, Super Yacht Logistics)

SUPERYACHT BASE KOBE MARINA

Superyacht Base Kobe Marina will in 2027 with a full service opening for yachts in 2026 and a full opening with surrounding infrastructure in 2027. Superyacht Base, is a marina development, management and operation entity set up by Monaco based Nigel Beatty and Japan based Yukio Shintani.

Korea is among the world's fastest-growing advanced economies and is a world leader in innovation and technologically advanced goods such as electronics, automobiles, ships, machinery, petrochemicals and robotics. The west coast of Korea has 10m tidal ranges and endless mudflats, while the east coast consists mostly of small commercial fishing ports. The south coast, from Busan to Mokpo, offers beautiful cruising among thousands of islands, but there are only a few marinas. The marina built in Busan for the Seoul Olympics can now be used by cruising yachts but has little in the way of facilities for superyachts. Picturesque Jeju Island is a major domestic holiday and honeymoon destination, but again not much marine infrastructure.

 Taiwan has been building quality superyachts for a long time, and ranks as the 4th largest builder of superyachts in the world by total feet launched. The same shipyards provide first class refit and repair services. Taiwan has over 800nm of coastline, with the most spectacular facing the Pacific Ocean to the east. Apart from commercial fishing, the local population has been discouraged from engaging with the sea for political reasons, but the sentiment is beginning to change. Consisting of 168 islands there is plenty of cruising and opportunities for shore excursions with mountains of almost 4,000 meters (13,000 feet) and rain forests on the main island and destinations such as the Penghu archipelago in the Taiwan Strait.

The Sultanate of Brunei is a small country within the island of Borneo. It is almost entirely dependent on oil and gas revenues which have made it the 5th richest nation in the world by GDP. Brunei has a long maritime history, and the pattern of settlement has traditionally focused on waterways. This maritime focus creates useful advantages for visiting yachts, as any items imported for marine use are duty-free. The coast line is not particularly attractive or interesting, but there are protected anchorages for superyachts on the west coast of Borneo at Serasa, where the Royal Brunei Yacht Club can be found. Brunei offers some easily accessible and well-preserved reefs and wrecks for divers and plenty of golf courses for land lovers.

 Sandwiched between Thailand and Vietnam, and held against the Gulf of Thailand by Laos. Cambodia has a mere 443km of coastline, and hardly appears on the yachting map at all. Cambodia’s biggest draw card is Angkor Wat, a Hindu temple complex that constitutes the largest religious monument in the world. Phnom Penh, the capital it was considered the loveliest of the French-built cities in Indochina in the 1920s. Cambodia has only recently opened up to boating but its pristine beaches, emerald waters and unexplored islands it will no doubt attract more yachts in the future.

 If yacht owners and charterers would just look beyond the Caribbean and the Mediterranean, they would discover Indonesia: 17,000 islands strung across 5,500km of tropical seas, an ocean lover’s dream where adventurous yachts seeking idyllic cruise experiences can take maximum pleasure from a plethora of cultural and natural attractions. Indonesia is one of the truly greatest cruising grounds on the planet. From the fecund marine biodiversity of the Raja Ampat to the Spice Islands steeped in bloodshed and history, and from the explosions of Anak Krakatau to the prehistoric wonder of the Komodo dragons, Indonesia is somewhere that can genuinely claim to “have it all”. A country in two parts – literally. Peninsular Malaysia starts just below Thailand, and runs south to Singapore. Langkawi is beautiful, as well as being a duty-free island, with repair and support facilities for superyachts. Georgetown (Penang) is the stuff that romantic colonial dreams are made of, and Malacca is a slice of history on show. The high spot of the opposite – east - coast is Pulau Tioman but it offers scant facilities for visiting yachts. The rest of Malaysia – Sabah and Sarawak - is on the island of Borneo. “The Land below the Wind” is safely south of the typhoon zone. The coastlines do not attract cruising attention, but the historic towns of Kuching and Kota Kinabalu are interesting, and the diving on the east coast is world-class.

Only recently has Myanmar, previously Burma, opened its waters to visiting yachts.

A permit is still required. The Mergui Archipelago, in the south of the country near to the border with Thailand, is a world class cruising ground of beautiful tropical islands, totally untouched and unspoiled. There are no support facilities or marinas, so this is cruising for the adventurous. The start point for such cruises is usually ‘next door’ in Phuket, Thailand.

The other substantially underestimated Asian cruising destination.

You could spend a lifetime exploring the Philippines. Easily reached from Hong Kong, but the best cruising is in the middle and south of the country. The jewelled islands of Busuanga and Coron hide some seriously superior resorts – these days, all accessible by seaplane, as is much of the country. El Nido in the north of Palawan is justifiably famous, although maybe a few too many people have found it by now. Apo and Tubbataha reefs are easily accessible by superyacht, and boast some of the best pelagic diving in the world. There are plenty of ports of entry (10), plenty of international airports (5), and excellent repair and engineering services available at Subic Bay.

 You don't visit Singapore for cruising: territorial waters are not much bigger than the island itself. But you do go there for back-up services (engineering, repairs, materials, parts etc) and then sail on to Malaysia, Thailand or Indonesia afterwards. Singapore is a properly efficient and no-nonsense international port, with shipyards and marinas capable of handling superyachts, an international airport and the Singapore Yachting Festival - #1 big boat yacht show in Asia.

 Thailand, and specifically Phuket, is presently the de facto hub for superyachts in Asia. Boats arriving from Europe come here as a first port of call. Phuket is right next door to the near-legendary Phang Nga Bay, with good yacht marina facilities and a good international airport. Cruising on the east coast, the Gulf of Thailand, is less well-known but includes the Koh Chang islands. Easy transit from Bangkok Airport to Pattaya and thence onto the water. Superyachts can also anchor at Koh Samui (3rd largest island) and visit nearby Anghong National Marine Park with 42 uninhabited islands. Chartering still suffers from regulatory problems, but there are plenty of ways to “make it work”.

 Superyacht activity is yet a major activity in Vietnam. There are plenty of good anchorages, and plenty to see both along the coast (start with Ha Long Bay) and ashore (the Imperial Citadel at Hue). Ho Chi Minh City is high tempo and cosmopolitan, and Hanoi is French Colonial and historical. But be sure to phone ahead: authorities do not welcome unannounced visitors. Once every two years there is a sailing race (673nm) from Hong Kong to Nha Trang, which is organised by the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club. www.chinacoastraceweek.com

SRI LANKA

 Home to some of the greatest civilisations the world has known, India is “a fabulous potpourri of contradictions, diversity and coexistence, ancient to modern art, culture, heritage, monuments, cuisine, languages, landscapes, flora and fauna... amazing and sometimes confusing. India has three archipelagos, Lakshadweep (southwest coast), the volcanic Andaman and Nicobar Island chain (southeast), and the Sunderbans in the Ganges Delta of West Bengal. The Andamans are the most popular destination for superyachts, and yachts are welcome to stop at many of the islands but please check with an agent about permit requirements. Mumbai (formally Bombay) is home to the Royal Bombay Yacht Club a classic institution for sailors and Goa with its natural harbour and Portuguese influence and world heritage sites is another must visit in India.

ANDAMAN AND NICOBAR ISLANDS

This group of 572 islands lies 193 km away from Cape Negrais in Myanmar, 1255 km from Calcutta, and 1190 km from Chennai. Situated in the Bay of Bengal, these two important groups of islets are known as Ritchie's archipelago and Labyrinth islands. Located to the south of the Andamans, Nicobar islands are 121 km from Little Andaman island. Only 36 islands out of 572 islands are inhabited. Home to India's only active volcano, the thousands of square miles of untouched jungle, exotic and thriving wild life, makes this area one of the world's best marine ecosystems.

 This astonishing collection of atolls sprinkled across the Indian Ocean have the distinction of looking “just like the brochure”. The Maldives boasts four international airports, and the pattern of islands is covered by comprehensive float plane network. A few islands are occupied by Maldivian villages, but the resort islands outnumber everything else. Resorts need to be as autonomous as a superyacht – everything is imported. There are a number of official anchorages, and any number of informal ones – just avoid the marine reserves of course. Some resorts welcome yacht guests coming ashore for dinner, others do not.

Mauritius is happily in the middle of nowhere. 900km from the nearest land

(Madagascar) means that it is surrounded by water as clean as that which you cross to get to it. The white sand beaches are exemplary, and the diving is five-star and more. Port Louis, the capital and only port of entry, has been welcoming foreigners into its harbour for a very long time. 'Discovered' by the Portuguese in 1507, Mauritius was colonised by the Dutch, the French and then the British between 1598 until the granting of independence in 1968: English, French and Creole influences combine to create a vigorously multicultural society.

 Tourism is officially the primary industry of the Seychelles, with plantation a distant second. It's not hard to see why: the Constitution lists 155 islands and atolls, the majority of which are uninhabited, and many dedicated as nature reserves - some of them hosting research stations of international significance. In the 1960s local conservationists succeeded in banning spearguns and the use of dynamite for fishing, with the result that the marine wildlife is unafraid of divers and snorkelers. And despite being a small country (pop: 97,000) the Seychelles has a vibrant art scene that encompasses painters, sculptors, writers and poets, artisans of many types, musicians and dancers.

“It is forbidden for yachts to anchor in any other area except a port of entry”. Which means Galle or Colombo, and that’s it. Sri Lanka, once called ‘Serendip’ and hence our happy word ‘serendipity’ is a magical place boasting ancient artwork and architecture, temples and palaces, tea plantations and highland golf courses, wildlife sanctuaries and elephant orphanages, a rich and vibrant culture, and a great deal of pride in the island’s history. What Sri Lanka lacks in modern boating sophistication it makes up for with the warmth of the welcome.

Of course, Australia is a destination in its own right, but it is also home to the biggest superyacht support industry in the southern hemisphere. Marine maintenance, shipyards, refit and berthing facilities are all distributed all along the eastern seaboard from Cairns to Melbourne. This is a cruising coast, too, and don't forget the Great Barrier Reef. For a more adventurous itinerary, include the far north of the Northern Territory, the spectacular Kimberley Coast of Western Australia, and the untouched wilderness of Tasmania's west coast. The great cosmopolitan centres of Melbourne and Sydney need no introduction.

Splinters of green and white set in azure seas, the Cook Islands total 240 sq km scattered across 1.8 million sq km of Pacific Ocean. Pukapuka atoll is fully 1,140km from the principal island of the group, Rarotonga. Once famous for its wood carvings, the art of which was heavily suppressed by Christian missionaries as being altogether too suggestive and idolatrous, the Cook Islands' most notable product is now 'tivaevae' or island scenery patchwork quilts. Rarotonga also supports a thriving contemporary art culture of painting, film-making, photography, sculpture, fabrics and print-making. Superb snorkelling, diving and fishing are the other main tourist attractions.

 330 islands in the Pacific Ocean, of which the two biggest are Viti Levu and Vanua Levu. Abundant forest, mineral and fish resources make Fiji one of the most developed economies in the Pacific. The country had had a chequered political history since gaining independence from Great Britain in 1970. However, Fiji is now considered to be entirely safe and stable, as befits an economy heavily dependent on tourism. Very recently, Fiji has invested substantial sums in berthing facilities for superyachts. The 'OPEN' sign is on the door and visitors are very welcome. Blue Lanes are Open!

 French Polynesia is the quintessential Pacific. With 1% of land versus 99% of ocean spread over a territory as wide as the continental United States or Western Europe, both sophistication and adventure await in one of the safest places on earth, where ocean conservation has been a governmental priority for over ten years. Crossing the Pacific westabout from Panama, French Polynesia will always be the first port of call. The names of Tahiti and the Society Islands are well-known – Bora Bora, Moorea, Raiatea – but Polynesia includes the Marquesas, Austral, Tuamotu and Gambier Islands, making for possibly the most fabulous ‘cruise collection’ of the Pacific. The Polynesian islands are volcanic in origin, with fringing reefs, making for spectacular and otherworldly scenery. Tahitian government authorities (maritime, tourism, customs, immigration) have recently collaborated in order to streamline entry procedures and make French Polynesia additionally attractive to yachts and superyachts.

The Hawaiian Islands have long been America's playground, and well understand tourism and hospitality. Constant trade winds make for great sailing, and ocean swells pile up on the shores to provide great surfing. The chain of six principal islands was all volcanic, making for spectacular geological scenery, fringed with tropical sands and oceanic blue waters. Visiting Hawaii is as much about volcanoes pouring molten lava into the sea as it is about beaches and palm trees. This is the 50th state of the USA, so standard port clearance and other formalities apply.

Under the control at various times of Spain, Germany, Japan, and the USA, the Marshall Islands' chief claim to fame is Bikini Atoll, the site of the notorious US atomic bomb tests from 1946 to 1948. Two thirds of the population live on Majuro, which is the capital and most developed atoll. Diving is best from May through to October and provides access to some of the best wreck diving with 25 shipwrecks and 160 plane wrecks from WWII. Surfing experts say Beran Island offers unparalleled access to some of the best surf. In 2011 the government declared nearly 2,000,000 sq km of the country to be a zero-kill shark sanctuary.

The Federated States of Micronesia is a collection of 607 tiny islands and atolls, situated along the Caroline Archipelago to the east of the Philippines. There is very little tourism activity on account of remoteness and lack of infrastructure. In 1944, US carrier forces sank 12 Japanese warships and 32 merchant ships in Truk lagoon, making it the biggest ship graveyard in the world, and now a delight for divers ever since.

New Caledonia is a ribbon of land with a mountainous spine, covered in rain forests on the west side and savannah on the east. The west coast is protected by one of the longest barrier reefs in the world, and the area within provides idyllic cruising. The Loyalty Islands, 100km to the northeast of the main island, Grande Terre, are remote and rustic. Bring gifts for village chiefs. New Caledonia is (presently) governed by France; the capital, Noumea, is a well-appointed city with quality restaurants and shopping – and most importantly, excellent provisioning. Port Moselle has a ‘proper’ marina, and marine facilities are generally good.

THE 38TH AMERICA'S CUP

The Louis Vuitton Cup and Louis Vuitton America's Cup Match will be sailed in Italy, and will take place under the watchful shadow of Mt Vesuvius and just off the waterfront of the vibrant city of Naples. It is intended that the Louis Vuitton 38th America's Cup will be held during the Italian spring and summer of 2027 with the Match taking place in the month of July 2027 in Naples.

 600nm east of the Philippines, and the furthest west of the Pacific islands. The three principal islands – Koror, Babeldaob, Peleliu – are contained within one barrier reef which also contains Palau’s most famous sight, the Rock Islands, 200+ tiny and picturesque limestone islets artistically arranged in shallow azure water like background scenery in an animated movie. Multiple ocean currents converge on Palau, bringing nutrition which in turn brings huge quantities of marine life. Fish, giant clams, sharks, rays and turtles abound, as well as innumerable WW2 wrecks, making Palau a diver’s dream world.

 'PNG' is the eastern half of the island of New Guinea, just 150km north of Australia at the nearest point. It is mountainous in the centre, with lowland tropical forest towards the north and south coasts: a very convoluted geology in the east where three tectonic plates meet. More than 1,000 cultural groups coexist in PNG, and there are officially 851 indigenous languages – diversity on the rampage. The coastal waters of PNG and in particular the islands of the Bismark Archipelago and the Trobriand Islands offer some of the best diving in the world. What PNG lacks in sophistication (eg 5-star hotels) will be more than made up for on board a superyacht!

White beaches, clear turquoise water, lush green jungle, blue skies, gently waving palm trees. Welcome to another Pacific island paradise. Samoa consists of just two volcanic islands and eight small islets. Samoa is one of the oldest and most sophisticated cultures of the Pacific islands, along with Fiji and Tonga. Tourism and yacht services have yet to be developed in Samoa, but all visitors are extended a warm welcome anyway – it’s part of the Samoan culture. This is where the celebrated writer Robert Louis Stevenson lived and is buried: “home is the sailor, home from the sea, And the hunter is home from the hill.”

Solomon Islands are reputed to have some of the clearest waters among the Pacific islands, and that is a quite a claim. Certainly 50m+ visibility permits the easy exploration of a myriad of WWII wrecks, rich coral reefs, and hugely diverse marine life. Guadalcanal is the biggest of the islands, and Honiara Airport was a Japanese military base under construction when Allied forces arrived in 1942. The Solomons' culture is rich and varied, from wood carving to shark-worshipping and there is a determined effort to preserve the traditional lifestyles of the islanders.

 Tonga is, and always has been, an independent kingdom, with His Majesty King Siaosou Tupou reigning over the 141 islands of the Tongan Archipelago (of which fewer than 40 are inhabited). Along with the sugar-sand beaches and the gently waving palm trees, Tonga is renowned as a humpback whale breeding ground, and offers some of the best and most varied diving in the Pacific. Tourism is growing, and has some way to go, but a number of boat-related and superyacht service companies operate in the capital, Nuku'alofa. Tonga has great potential to boom, and a visit here, now, would be a very good idea.

A string of volcanic islands punctuated by cascading waterfalls, with most of the smokers now extinct, although Mt Ambrym and Mt Yasur are both gently active. Pentecost, in the north of the island chain, is the home of ceremonial 'land diving', often thought to be the origin of bungee jumping. Port Vila is a delightful tropical capital with a strong sense of its Melanesian identity. Further afield, those travelling by water will find friendly and welcoming villages for whom contact with the out-side world is often restricted to visiting superyachts. Travel to Vanuatu is currently restricted. Please refer to the Department of Vanuatu Immigration and Passport Services website for the most up-to-date information.

Two spots in the vastness of the Pacific Ocean, separated 150nm, and with a combined population of 13,000. Wallis is the more 'developed' of the two, consisting of a volcanic island with a fringing reef and lagoon, encompassing a number of small and picturesque islands. Passage into the lagoon is relatively easy for superyachts, and there are plenty of calm and peaceful anchorages once inside. Just don't expect a great deal of sophistication or slick superyacht services. That not what you came to Wallis Island for. Futuna's near-neighbour, Alofi, is uninhabited but surrounded by waters that are a breeding ground for pygmy killer whales.
